

If indeed as Verizon states is true and "competition in the broadband market is flourishing", why then does the segment need any more deregulation?